

Senior assistant professor Dr. Daniela Georgieva Medzhidieva.

Graduated in Medicine from the Medical University of Sofia in 1986.

Assistant professor at the Department and Clinic of Occupational Diseases, Medical University, Sofia since 2000.

Head of the Department of General and Occupational ENT Diseases and Otoneurology at the Occupational Diseases Clinic, University Hospital "St. Ivan Rilski," Sofia since 2003.

Senior assistant professor at the Department of Occupational Diseases, Medical University, Sofia.

Dr. Medzhidieva has medical specialties in ENT diseases and occupational diseases, Master of Public Health and Health Management, Medical University, Faculty of Public Health, Sofia.

Her specialized postgraduate qualifications include: European diploma in Audiology - Audiometry and Impedancemetry, European diploma in Otoneurology, subsequent qualification in evoked potentials as well as many specializations abroad, including specializations in otoneurology - University of Modena and Reggio Emilia, Prof. G. Guidetti, Marseille University, Prof. Dr. M. Lacourt; Maastricht University Medical Centre, Prof. Dr. H. Kingma; University of Munich Medical Center, Prof. Dr. M. Strup.

Dr. Medzhidieva is author and co-author of textbooks on occupational ENT diseases, Hygiene and others. She has over 80 publications in Bulgarian and international journals, participations in international congresses, projects, symposia and drafting of regulations in the field of occupational pathology at the Ministry of Health. She is a lecturer at postgraduate courses and conducts seminars and practical exercises on Occupational Diseases for Bulgarian and foreign students at the Sofia Medical University.

She has participated as a principal investigator in clinical trials.

Dr. Medzhidieva is a member of the Bulgarian Society of Otorhinolaryngology, the Bulgarian Society of Occupational Diseases, the Bulgarian Allergological Society, the Balkan Society of Otorhinolaryngology, the Balkan Atlantic Academy, the European Academy of Otolology and Neuro-Otolology, the Mediterranean Society of Otolology and Audiology.